

SESSION:

The UNlimited potential of leading small teams,
and making a BIG Impact

Speaker Profile:

Amy Saucier Kelly | Virginia Commonwealth University

Amy is a highly- skilled strategic operations leader with experience in event management, public relations, and government relations. As the Executive Director of University Events and Strategic Operations at VCU, she oversees a team that produces major university events and aligns initiatives with the university's strategic plan.

Amy has previously served in the Office of Attorney General of Virginia and advised several state legislators.

About the Session:

The reality of the higher education industry is that our teams are limited in size but Unlimited in potential. We are often given limited resources and funded but asked to make magic happen for our faculty, staff, and students. Our events are successful due to herculean efforts of our small but mighty teams. In the session, we will discuss ways to motivate your team, prevent burnout, and encourage creativity.